It is a love story that takes place in the year of 1893. The background is the town of St. Jovite, Mont-Tremblant in the Laurentian s. This was the year that the steam locomotive was extended in Quebec. The train station is an important aspect to this story. The main character endures many hardships in her struggle to re-build her life and becomes a powerful business woman with support and love by her side. Can it withstand the obstacles that have to be faced in the first couple of months? Will the relationship continue to hold their love, commitment, loyalty, dedication and passion to remain in their hearts and souls?

This study of Edgar Reitz's 1984 film saga Heimat explores the cultural contexts of the Heimat tradition and examines the political debate surrounding the film's reception. Responses were largely supportive but some critics were disturbed by an apparent tendency to induce a sense of uncritical nostalgia in viewers. Reitz, by contrast, had wanted to make a film which would help people confront their memories of the Third Reich. The author tests hostile critiques not only against the film's elliptical narrative but also against Reitz's filmic techniques. She examines the interplay of realism and authenticity, and shows how Reitz dramatizes the confrontation between modernity and rural communities, while consciously alluding to the problematic and much-derided Heimat genre.

When Dani Springer's teenage son decides to move to the East Coast to live with his father, she pulls up stakes and heads for the Berkshires to open a Bed and Breakfast, and wait for him to come to his senses. She finds the perfect New England Colonial with a magnificent English-style cottage garden. The only catch is that the house comes with the eighty-three year old owner, who will only sell the house if she can continue living in the guesthouse, rent free. At first, the arrangement seems simple enough, but nothing about the relationship between Dani and Clarissa Hamilton is simple because, long ago, the house became the most important part of Clarissa's life. Now that it is being turned into a business, she is not amused and finds ways to sabotage Dani's efforts to get The Maples up and running. The battle between the women is sometimes funny, sometimes painful. The wild card in the mix is Evan Murray, the landscape architect who is reworking the cottage garden. The threads of Clarissa's, Evan's, and Dani's lives become entangled as Evan and Clarissa come to terms with a past they didn't know they shared.

Mrs. Dalloway said she would buy the flowers herself. For Lucy had her work cut out for her. The doors would be taken off their hinges; Rumpelmayer's men were coming. And then, thought Clarissa Dalloway, what a morning--fresh as if issued to children on a beach.

This is a collection that can be used as a reference for studies of Samuel Richardson's Clarissa. It includes main character indexes, place name index and summaries of letters.

Asking why the 19th-century British novel features heroines, and how and why it features "feminine heroism," Susan Morgan traces the relationship between fictional depictions of gender and Victorian ideas of history and progress. Morgan approaches gender in selected 19th-century British novels as an imaginative category, accessible to authors and characters of either sex. Arguing that conventional definitions of heroism offer a fixed and history-denying perspective on life, the book traces a literary tradition that represents social progress as a process of feminization. The capacities for flexibility, mercy, and self-doubt, conventionally devalued as feminine, can make it possible for characters to enter history. She shows that Austen and Scott offer revolutionary definitions of feminine heroism, and the tradition is elaborated and transformed by Gaskell, Eliot, Meredith, and James (partly through one of his last "heroines," the aging hero of The Ambassadors.) Throughout the study, Morgan considers how gender functions both in individual novels and more extensively as a means of tracing larger patterns and interests, especially those concerned with the redemptive possibilities of a temporal and historical perspective.

The novels of the irresistible Raveneau & Beauvisage families – ALL together for the first time! Step back in time with New York Times bestselling author Cynthia Wright and immerse yourself in a world of Rakes & Rebels... where adventure, romance, humor, and passion all conspire to weave tales you will never forget! Meet the Raveneau & Beauvisage families in the 12 intertwining novels of THE COMPLETE RAKES & REBELS SERIES: HEART OF FRAGILE STARS – England, 1749 - Dashing corsair Jean-Philippe Beauvisage revels in his life of freedom until one night at a ball, when a Russian beauty steals his heart. His instant attraction is soul-deep, but Antonia is bound for America. Take to the high seas with Jean-Philippe as he plots to capture his lady's heart of fragile stars. SILVER STORM – America, 1781 – Privateer Captain André Raveneau saves spirited Devon Lindsay after her Connecticut town is burned by the British and she stows away on his ship. He agrees to deliver her to her soldier sweetheart, but doesn't count on passion sizzling between them. CAROLINE – Philadelphia, 1783 - Major Alexandre Beauvisage is returning from the Revolutionary War when he discovers an injured female with no memory of her past. Against his better judgment, Alec takes Caro home with him to Philadelphia and quickly falls under the innocent foundling's spell. TOUCH THE SUN – Philadelphia, 1789 - Lion Hampshire aspires to a seat in America's first Congress, but his rakish reputation needs mending. An arranged marriage with Virginia-bred beauty Priscilla seems a good idea until Lion meets her lady's maid, the enchanting Meagan South. SPRING FIRES – Philadelphia & London, 1793 – Lisette Hahn, proprietress of a popular CoffeeHouse, is proudly resistant to men's advances until grief causes her to succumb to one night of passion with Nicholai Beauvisage. But what will the dawn bring? SMUGGLER'S MOON – England, 1798 – When Julia Faircloth switches places with her sister at the altar to save her from the marriage bed of Lord Sebastian Trevarre, she doesn't dream that they'll live on a crumbling estate in Cornwall, or that Sebastian might resort to smuggling to restore his fortune. THE SECRET OF LOVE – England & France, 1808 - Lady Isabella fell for irresistible Gabriel St. Briac the first time she saw him. Now a woman grown, she's more interested in pursuing her career as an artist than affairs of the heart. But when Gabriel's masterpiece is stolen, Isabella is determined to help in the dangerous search... SURRENDER THE STARS – England, 1814 – Lindsay Raveneau's family goes undercover in London, spying for America, and renegade sea captain Ryan Coleraine joins them, pretending to be Lindsay's brother. Forbidden passion mounts as they carry their masquerade to London's Regency salons. HER DANGEROUS VISCOUNT – France, England, & America, 1814 – Natalya Beauvisage is determined to write about romance, not live it, but when Grey St. James escapes from Napoleon's French prison and bids her travel with him, she is caught up in an adventure that awakens her deepest passions. HIS MAKE-BELIEVE BRIDE – Cornwall, 1818 – Untamable pirate Justin St. Briac and destitute widow Mouette Raveneau bring all their baggage, defenses, and hidden longings to a marriage that's only make-believe. Can these two wounded souls find their way to real love? HIS RECKLESS BARGAIN – England & Barbados, 1818 - Regency rake Nathan Raveneau masquerades as protector to impetuous Adrienne Beauvisage, charged to keep her safe and chaste... but matters get complicated when he abducts her himself, sailing off to magical Barbados. TEMPEST – America & Barbados, 1903 – Newport heiress Catherine Parrish eludes her mother's ambition that she wed a Duke by proposing a marriage of convenience to destitute rake Adam Raveneau. On his neglected Barbados estate, can Cathy and Adam navigate the bumpy path to real love? The past returns to haunt them . . . Recurring, sensual dreams haunt Faith McCoy. The daughter of a minister, she's uncomfortable with the sexy images. While on a trip to the colorful gambling town of Cripple Creek, Colorado, she is shocked and frightened to find not only the room in her dreams, but the man whose touch haunts and excites her. She might consider a modern-day relationship if it weren't for the fact that the room--and her dream--are set in a former brothel. Casino owner Cord Burke has his own dreams of the beautiful woman who seduces him. He never expected her to be real, but when he meets Faith, he's drawn to her and the past that seems to threaten her. He refuses; however, to be drawn to the forevers and promises she represents. He's been burned too many times in life to consider settling down. Suspecting that they may have lived and loved in a prior life, they face the ghost of an old enemy. But how can they beat a ghost who has no fear--not even of death . . . Angel Smits's background as a geriatric social worker has given her a glimpse into many varied lives and generations. She finds her characters and stories in the people she's met. Angel has received the Romance Writers of America Golden Heart award and is a multi-published romance author. Angel lives in Colorado with her husband, daughter, and an overly-energetic border collie.

Jackson and Eva is a patchwork quilt of quirky characters that combine humor, drama, horror and pathos set within a time- spanning backdrop. This is the story of the dissolution of the marriage of two mortals, Jackson and Eva, who have become a part of the lives of the inhabitants of The Cat's Ass Boutique, a Vampire nightclub. It is also the story of the dysfunctional lives and relationships of Vampires, thus proving that immortality does not necessarily guarantee mental and emotional stability.

Seven million years on the New Hell Sindy Times bestseller list... The damned are revolting! The underworld explodes with excitement as Satan himself rebels against forces from on high. Or does he? Dreams are dashed and strongholds topple as the greatest shared universe of all times convulses with mystery and mayhem. Shakespeare and Marlowe begin a new play to please the Devil.... Satan and Samael plot to expose the unrepentant damned... Before Napoleon's eyes, Caesar's villa explodes in chaos... Goethe finds out that hell is all around him... Isadora Duncan forgets that dreams can be hell... Hell's librarian throws a bash and the damned party down... and down... and down... All over the netherworlds, worse comes to worst as Hell's Most Unwanted try assaulting heaven's gates and raise more hell than they bargained for.... As darkness falls each night, the corelings rise, demons who well up from the ground like a hellish steam, and when young Arlen decides to brave the night roads and face the demons, he attempts something not dreamt of since ancient times: a stand against the night.

There is a part of our mind where lies the secrets of our past. Memories, hidden, only to surface when least expected, haunting us in our dreams. Clarissa Bennington spent nine years in a small orphanage, unaware of the circumstances that brought her there. Now, at eighteen, she must move on. A re-occurring nightmare leaves her frightened and shaken, unable to find comfort or explain the dream. Upon leaving the orphanage, she is handed a letter from her deceased father. It brings wealth and mystery into her life. Suddenly, she is faced with unanswered questions regarding the death of her father and stepmother. The more truths she uncovers, the more danger follows her. Join Clarissa in searching for answers; get involved with her fears, experience the intrigue, adventure and romance. Unravel the unknown peril, bent on destroying her and any memories of the past.

Samuel Richardson's highly acclaimed "Clarissa," commonly read as a courtship novel, is in fact a story about the transaction between Robert Lovelace, a pathological narcissist, and Clarissa Harlowe, his victim, whom he idealizes, yet is compelled to destroy. "Anger, Guilt, and the Psychology of the Self in 'Clarissa'" shows the narcissistic self-structure that explains Lovelace's anger and need for revenge. It shows, too, the process by which, after being raped, Clarissa reconstructs her self through penitential mourning and deepens her Christian understanding by abandoning her "de facto" Pelagianism when her own experience of evil provides empirical evidence for Original Sin.

This study examines the presentation of suicide within the genre of the eighteenth-century novel. Referencing several key writers of the period, McGuire demonstrates that their work inscribes a nationalist imperative to frame suicide as self-sacrifice.

As I completed this memoir, I was struck by the fact that so many scary things happened to me. Then, I realized that if you divided the number of bad experiences by 42 years of diving the figure wasn't so bad. I experienced so many days of fun in, under and near the water. I dove in cold water and warm water and saw many varieties of marine life that the time spent was very worthwhile. Diving in lakes and rivers, the Puget Sound and San Juans, Mexico, the Carribean, Catalina , and other locatons gave me hours of fond memories. The friends I met and the people that helped me and encouraged me were and are the greatest! Thank you! If I were to be asked about diving I would give the following advice: 1.) Take the very best classes available (NAUI, PADI and YMCA). I'm sure that there are others that are good – check them out. Don't think that by taking a two day class in some resort that you are a pro, even if the instructor tells you so. Believe me, you are not! 2.) Buy the highest quality equipment. Beware of second hand regulators and BCs. 3.) Plan your dive and dive your plan. 4.) Don't drink the night before or before entering the water. 5.) Don't dive below 100 feet unless you have advanced training. It is very cold, dark and dangerous. And 6.) Always dive with a buddy! And stick with him or her. Keep wet my friends!

A romance novel with a touch of science-fiction. Filled with spicy scenes and wrapped around a deliciously suspenseful twist. Celeste pale blue skin shimmered as she smiled and said, "You don't have a fairy godmother. You have something better. A desperate and unethical extraterrestrial researcher willing to do anything to secure further agency funding to learn more about your love life." Dating is hard and it seems as if it is even harder for Klarissa whose clumsiness and low confidence make most men feel completely out of reach. Klarissa's bland life gets a sudden infusion of excitement when she meets Celeste, an alien research student whose doctoral thesis is based on Klarissa's 'mating habits.' Desperate to get scientific results in time for her grant application, Celeste gives Klarissa the power to understand men, to control their desire, and to protect herself from the consequences. Overnight, Klarissa's world goes from a brick wall of denial to her oyster as the men she used to sigh over: her devastatingly hot upstairs neighbor, her powerful and domineering boss, the enthusiastic entrepreneur her younger sister seems intent on setting her up with, now all sigh over her. Klarissa soon learns that with great power of course comes federal agents asking questions about the odd occurrences that seem to be happening around her. Can Klarissa evade the spooks and land the man of her dreams? There's something terrifying around every turn. When the world as we know it has ended and all that remains of humanity's earthly ways are the stories that reside within the libraries of the space habitats, the view of humanity can be skewed. In these twenty-four stories is a sample of how the earthly mind worked, how it delighted in terrifying, how it indulged in the horrific. What must our future selves think of us? This second volume in the Night Chills series offers tales from authors who joined us in Terror by Gaslight, as well as some new and delightful minds. Rie Sheridan Rose, Wayne

Borean, R. E. Hinkle, Catherine Stovall, and John Manning himself are among those who have filled the pages of this volume with a sprinkling of humor and a large dose of chills. Klarissa Dreams Createspace Independent Publishing Platform

Eighteenth-century literature displays a fascination with the seduction of a virtuous young heroine, most famously illustrated by Samuel Richardson's Clarissa and repeated in 1790s radical women's novels, in the many memoirs by fictional or real penitent prostitutes, and in street print. Across fiction, ballads, essays and miscellanies, stories were told of women's mistaken belief in their lovers' vows. In this book Katherine Binhammer surveys seduction narratives from the late eighteenth century within the context of the new ideal of marriage-for-love and shows how these tales tell varying stories of women's emotional and sexual lives. Drawing on new historicism, feminism, and narrative theory, Binhammer argues that the seduction narrative allowed writers to explore different fates for the heroine than the domesticity that became the dominant form in later literature. This study will appeal to scholars of eighteenth-century literature, social and cultural history, and women's and gender studies.

Satori is desperate to win back his ex girlfriend, Star. He tries to summon a demon to command its help, but manages to bring Lilith, queen of the demons, into his bedroom, unleashing her on Earth. Lilith seduces Star and takes her on a wild murder spree that culminates in Scotland. Can Satori save Star and himself or will Lilith destroy them both? With stunning art by Anna Prashkovich, this graphic novel adaptation of Carmilla Voiez's novel Starblood is a treat for mature audiences. 18+. Includes some nudity.

Valaria is on the verge of war, instigated by the powerful witch Galadril. She only wants to become more powerful and control all. Through time and space, Princess Esmeralda was hidden away for her safety for years, but has been brought back to assume her rightful place. Galadril will do anything to keep that from happening, and her cousin Galadrar is a wizard who has vowed to make sure it does. Step into another world, a place beyond the present, as you journey through Valaria in "Beyond Realms."

Young circus performer Clarissa follows her star until her ambition is realized. Appearing alongside her are Mic and Mocha, the tumbling mice twins, and trapeze performers, the Gabbini Brothers.

The time is 1970, A Day In The Life, and what a difference this day will make in the lives of the Griffin family. They, of course, have no knowledge of this, preoccupied by the past and ambivalent about the future. They are also amazed that, with their innate eccentricities, they have not died out. In "Where Time Goes," a saga for and about Misfits, the richness and mystery of daily life unfolds in unexpected ways, testing dreams, beliefs, bonds. An intricately embroidered cloth, the Griffins watch the unraveling of their lives, feeling its texture leaving their grasp. In the process, the reader is left waiting as well, held in suspense, to see what, if any, new durable fabric will form.

Christian McClarity, David Morton and Lucas Mach have never met each other directly and never will (not even in this book where they share separate stories). They illuminate the classic role of the misunderstood and endangered loner hero who saves innocents from slaughter and brings murderous gangsters to justice.

These men are very different from each other: a tenderfoot in Montana, a retired sheriff in Boston and a politically influential business mogul in Washington, D.C. None of them meant to be cast into the role of detective, but murder mysteries spontaneously erupt before them.
